The combination of past and future. In the rapidly changing world of digitalisation, there is still a yearning for old and trusted values and timeless classics. Modern interpretations of natural textures such as marble, terrazzo and walnut characterise the design by combining past and future influences to create a stylish look.

Back to nature. The more technology finds its way into our lives, the more we feel the desire for original materials. Oak continues to be a popular trend in woodgrain decors. Whether with natural grains or authentic characteristics such as cracks and knots, it continues to prove its popularity in design and provides exciting contrasts when combined with complementary decors.

Perfection meets emotion. Perfection can be easily achieved with the help of the latest technology, but this is not always desirable in design. Irregularities and imperfections, such as cracks and weathered materials, convey a natural appearance and invoke emotion. The heavy used look or industrial style, in combination with very calm and straight-lined designs, creates the style Perfect Imperfection.
